

Lacombe's Mary C. Moore Public Library

The new Lacombe Memorial Centre was selected to house the modern, Mary C. Moore public library. To match the "Turn of the century" building design, the interior of the library needed to have special attention given to the furnishings. The interior furnishings needed to be user friendly, academically functional and reflect the special attention given to the building design and details. The interior contains a combination of rich woods, beautiful yet durable fabrics, strong flexible steel shelving and attention to small details such as easily visible signage.

Special individualized areas were allotted for, adult reading, pre teens, youth and even a coffee nook is included. Modern libraries such as this one prove you can have all the beauty and charm of the past and still provide the latest and best in technology.
