

Book Storage Room: Capacity and Security

The Challenge

A central Alberta High School needed to store their collection of text books through the summer months while cleaning, maintenance and various repairs were done to the building. (This is typical of many schools)

NOT ENOUGH SECURE STORAGE

The challenge was to be able to accommodate all the text books in one room using a combination of existing wood shelves, millwork and cupboards. The volume of books was always greater than the room capacity. Further, the many contract workers in the building during the summer months posed a constant risk of damage to and theft from the collection if it was spread into several unsecured areas.

The Solution

To solve the capacity and security problems, the existing millwork and wood shelving was removed, and Mizer mobile shelving was installed in its place.

The Mizer mobile shelving more than tripled the capacity of the room, consolidating all the existing textbooks from the different areas, with some room for future growth. provided

The collection was now secure from damage and pilfering. As a bonus, having the collection all contained in one room added to the ease of sorting and repairing the books through the summer months.
